Subject: Microsoft Settlement

The settlement proposed in the Microsoft Antitrust case is a bad idea.

It forces no real change on Microsoft's part. It creates an environment where the people responsible for monitoring Microsoft's compliance are Microsoft employees. These people don't eat unless Microsoft tells them so, and yet they're supposed to be relied upon to report violations?

As a registered voter in the state of Michigan, I find this settlement to be unacceptable.

Please note that this e-mail is sent as my comment on the proposed Microsoft Settlement, as is allowed during the Tunney Act public comment period.
